What to do next?

Follow the instructions on page 2 for identifying your model of Clipon Adapter Plate. If you have one of the Gen 1 affected models you must stop using it immediately and return them to us for a free replacement. If you have any questions as to which model you have, please contact Woodcraft immediately and we will be happy to assist you.

Free Return

To return your adapter place we are providing free shipping. Simply call Woodcraft at 1-888-442-6996 or email us at info@woodcraft-cfm.com. You will be emailed a free shipping label. Once we receive your old part we will ship your new adapter plate to you.

FAQ's for returning parts

1. My part appears OK. Can I continue to use it? No, even though your product appears to be safe, all customers must participate in the recall by returning the part to us for free replacement.
2. Do I return the handlebars and risers? No, the handlebars and risers are not affected. You only need to return the adapter plate itself.
3. Do I need to return my old parts to receive new ones? Yes, all parts must be returned to Woodcraft prior to being sent a replacement set.

Identifying your Adapter Plate

Gen. 1 - Must stop using and return immediately

Thinner Web

Gen 2 - Not affected

Thicker Web

Generation 2 parts are most easily recognized by the thicker webs along the top surface. The webs on the Generation 2 parts are .250 thick. If you do NOT have .250 thick webs, then you have a Generation 1 part that must be replaced immediately.

What parts should I ship back?

- The only part that needs to be returned is the main center section of the clipon adapter plate assembly (pictured above). Customers should remove the risers and handlebars from the adapter plate by removing the three bolts on side of the plate that secure the risers. The bars, grips and controls can all stay complete and can be re-installed into the replacement part that you will receive. Since the risers are held with Loctite, you should melt the Loctite with a propane torch before removal. Woodcraft will send new mounting hardware to attach your current risers to the new adapter plate.
